

Do not do anything to weaken this act. If anything, the provisions should be strengthened.

Telemarketing is nothing more than the old door to door salesman in high-tech clothing - except that we could see him coming and not answer the door.